WELCOME

2023 THE COAHOMAN YEARBOOK STAFF

Welcome to the 59th volume of the Coahoman publication.
We are honored to have the opportunity to once again, bring you this enthralling periodical.

The events of the past few years have affected us all in one way or another, but most importantly, it caused us to look back and appreciate what this great institution has meant to us all.

Through the intentional collaboration of our college's President, administration, faculty, staff, students, alumni, stakeholders, and the communities that we serve, Coahoma has managed to bounce back even better than before! We have spent the past few years re-engaging people, rebuilding places, and responding to the needs of our constituents.

We're doing things we've never done before, going places we've never been, and seeing things we've never seen before! Our setbacks were undoubtedly preparations for our comebacks! We are now much stronger, wiser, and better!

As you turn the pages of the 2023 issue of the "Coahoman," you will not only see glimpses of the school year, but you will also feel the excitement that we feel on our campus every day!

It is impossible to know what lies ahead of us here, but one thing we have come to a definitive conclusion about, is that we are, "Better Together"!

A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

As human beings, we were not designed to live without the support of other human beings. Every account of significant progress and success in history has copious details of how people had to come together and work in harmony in order to overcome obstacles or reach desired goals. The neat part about working together is that each individual has the capacity to positively contribute to whatever the cause and effort that may land on the agenda at any given time. We have been fortunate to observe over the course of the pandemic that our institution would not have been able to thrive without the help of faculty, staff, students, alumni, stakeholders, and trustees. Coahoma Community College has remained afloat and focused on its mission because we have worked together for the betterment of our college.

Elements in nature provide examples as to how we are better together. For instance, fungi and alga can only survive with the help of each other. Sports teams cannot achieve victory without teammates working together. Machines and engines have parts that must work with each other in order to function efficiently. Even our bodies have multiple systems that must maintain physiological and anatomical fidelity in order for us to have optimal health status

As we continue to serve in a post-pandemic era, I am encouraged by the sense that we will continue to work together by unselfishly supporting the college and by valuing every person connected with the college. Our primary goal as a higher education service provider is to deliver educational and training goods to our constituents. In order to accomplish this goal, we will continue to encourage one another, support one another, and have an atmosphere that affirms the individual importance and capacity of everyone in order to help mold Coahoma into a gem of uplift not only for Mississippi but for the environ of our entire nation. We are not perfect. However, together we have become better, and the best is yet to come.

Remembering

FRANK HOWARD, SR.

NOVEMBER 23, 1941 - SEPTEMBER 16, 2014

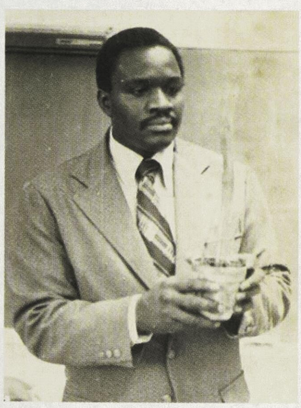
Affectionately referred to as "Big Guy" by his family and friends, Frank Howard, Sr. was a natural born leader who impacted everyone who came in contact with him. It didn't matter if you were his child, his friend or his enemy, he would always have words of wisdom, words from the Lord, and a vitamin or herbal supplement ready.

Frank Howard was the fourth child of the late Supt. Eddie D. Howard and the late Merdis L. Creamer. He grew up in a very small house in Goodman, MS with nine brothers and four sisters. His parents were great providers, but things were not always in abundance. Frank Howard would often tell his children and his congregation that he wore shoes that were handed down from his older brothers. One would think hand-me-downs would not be so bad, but sometimes the shoes were so worn that they had to be held together with haywire. He would later admit that the "shoe short-comings" of his early years is what led him to fill his shoe closet with many fine, handmade shoes of various exotic skins.

When Frank Howard became an adult, some of his brothers would tease him and say that he was never a child…he was born grown. "When I came up, there was one daddy in the house, and his name was Frank Howard," said Michael, one of his younger brothers. "He was our daddy AND our daddy's daddy." Frank Howard must have agreed with them, because he took his life and his schooling seriously from the beginning.

Frank Howard excelled in his studies at W.A. Higgins High School in Clarksdale, MS. He obtained an Associate of Arts degree from Coahoma Jr. College (now Coahoma Community College), graduated with honors from Alcorn A & M College (now Alcorn State University), and acquired his Masters of Arts in Teaching from Mississippi State University. With a continued thirst for knowledge, he furthered his studies at Texas Technological University, Christian Brothers College, and the University of Mississippi.

While attending Alcorn, Frank Howard, through his matchmaking roommate, met his bride of 48 years - the former Lela Mae Royal. Before they married, Frank Howard taught one year at Harris Junior College in Meridian, MS. After their nuptials on June 4, 1966, both he and Lela Howard began teaching at Coahoma Jr. College and Agricultural High School. Frank taught Life Sciences courses at Coahoma Junior College for 24 years.



Anyone who knew Frank. Howard knew that he used his science education to sharpen his skills on the inner workings of the body. Many people consulted with him and procured many of his vitamins and supplements. A praying man, Frank Howard soon realized that God had shaped him to be a doctor for the soul in addition to a doctor for the body. Not only was he mindful about the soul and body, he was also concerned with the physical edifices designed for God's people. He became a self-made entrepreneur and used his hands to construct exceptional homes, buildings, churches and cathedrals.

Frank Howard was ordained and in 1975 was appointed pastor of St. Mark COGIC in Prairie, MS. In 1977, he left Prairie, MS to become the new pastor of St. Luke COGIC in Moorhead, MS. In 1980 Supt. Howard was appointed District Superintendent of District #4 (Moorhead, MS) and some time later he became Administrative Assistant to Bishop T.T. Scott. A second generation member of the Church of God in Christ, Supt. Howard came up through the ranks by serving the church in many capacities: District Y.P.W.W. President, District Sunday School Superintendent, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Northern Mississippi Jurisdiction of the Church of God in Christ, Dean and Instructor of the Jurisdictional System of Bible Studies, and as the Secretary of the Board of District Superintendents.

Supt. Frank Howard was a long-time citizen of Clarksdale, Mississippi. He was well known for the services he rendered to the Clarksdale community. Supt. Howard was a trustee of the Northwest Regional Medical Center, a building contractor and real estate investor in Clarksdale and the surrounding areas. He was the president of Haifa, Inc. and the Vice-President of Delta Bus Lines.

J.W. CUTRER HOUSE
Built in 1916, this Italian style villa was designed by Memphis architect Bayard Cairnes and was the home of local attorney J.W. Cutrer and his wife Blanche Clark Cutrer, daughter of Clarksdale founder John Clark. Named Belvoir by the Cutrer family, it is known locally as the Cutrer Mansion. The Cutrers and their home inspired character names and settings in several works by celebrated playwright Tennessee Williams. The J.W. Cutrer House was designated as a Mississippi Landmark in 2005.

The Home Depot launched the "Retool Your School" grant program in 2009 to encourage and recognize innovative projects that provide improvements to HBCUs nationwide, according to the program website. To date, the program has awarded over 500 grants to qualifying HBCUs totaling $4.2 million.

Coahoma Community College called upon its faithful alumni, students, faculty, staff, and friends to help the 73-year-old institution return to the winner's circle in 2022 and to claim the $75,000 cash prize in this year's annual Home Depot "Retool Your School" Campus Improvement Grant program. As usual the "Tiger" family showed up and showed out to win a fourth-consecutive time.

In 2019, 2020, & 2021, and 2022 Coahoma won grants totaling $275,000. The funds are being used to construct numerous multipurpose outdoor spaces and to refresh a variety of areas throughout the CCC campus.

Marriel C. Hardy, chief communications officer, is thrilled with Coahoma's current position and encourages all CCC supporters to continue to support and voting ."We are so excited by the response made by CCC supporters in this year's competition," said Hardy.

Grants are awarded based on the total popular vote that combines unlimited daily online voting at www.retoolyourschool.com/vote and social media "voting" that counts Twitter and Instagram posts that include the hashtag #RYSCOAHOMA.

"Every year, we mark our calendars and make plans to fight hard in pursuit of an RYS grant. We've been so fortunate to win in 2019, 2020, 2021 & 2022. Coahoma is listed in cluster 2 for those who choose to vote online.

We hope to win in 2023 and "Go 5 For 5!"

Humanitarian of the year
Shanelle D. Frazier

For 2022 Humanities Teacher of the Year recipient Shanelle D. Frazier, oral communication, best known to the CCC campus community as public speaking, is "not just a subject matter" but also a life skill. Guiding college students in successful communication brings her much joy as it is an opportunity to give back to students braving the same position she once was. "I had instructors that did the same for me," she commented.

Frazier has accelerated to four years of service as an adjunct Public Speaking instructor for Coahoma Community College. Also serving as Student Employment Coordinator in the Office of Financial Aid, she escapes the rush of routine instructing Zumba classes and re-energizes with the lively workout style and Step Aerobics when off-duty "We only get one life to live; I hope that we live that life loving God, ourselves, and others," Frazier said, expressing her philosophy.

She is co-author of the book "The Frazier Chronicles: Finding Peace after Pain" and delights in being a member of the boy mom club thanks to her handsome, healthy toddler, Tyler Johnson.

Uniquely carrying teaching experience attained at her dear alma mater Mississippi Valley State, Frazier possesses an associate degree in computer science from Coahoma Community College, a Bachelor of Arts in mass communication, and a Master of Science in mass communication from Arkansas State University.

Frazier says of the elite Humanities Teacher of the Year naming, "I feel honored, excited and very grateful for the opportunity. I love teaching and aspire to teach full-time one day, so I believe that I am on my way to even greater heights." Additionally, she anticipates continuing the tradition of accepting the honor through an oral presentation, remarking, "I believe that it will impact administrators, faculty, staff, and students on college campuses." It motivates her to know that she gets to aid another in communicating more effectively.

While speaking and writing are tools employed in communicating daily, Frazier wishes to make students aware that effective communication is critical to their future as it can determine how milestone occurrences pan out.
"My students who may be timid or shy or who just naturally fear public speaking, I love seeing them progress and coming out of that "shell," she said. "That is a great feeling."

In terms of Coahoma Community College, she expresses high adoration for the institution. Coahoma is where she received a chunk of her education and now serves. "CCC is a "home away from home" opportunity for anyone who wants to be here. You are able to be educated, and get a college experience like you would if you were somewhere else. I have enjoyed seeing students learn, thrive, and graduate," Frazier sentiments.

Referencing one of her main influences, CCC stands as part of Frazier's full-circle story about instructor Cynthia Williams-Roberson, whom she admires for remaining devoted to her ideologies."Mrs. Roberson was my instructor, my supervisor for a number of years, became my mentor and is now the chair of her department and serves as my supervisor again. She is a lover of God, English, and "doing the right thing," and I have always looked up to and respected her for that," said Frazier.

-YOKO ONO

For the past 2 years, our Commencment Excercises have been held outdoors, at the beautiful James E. Miller Stadium. The scene was nothing less than pristine, elegant and memorable.

The Faculty and staff get a last look at their students before they become proud "Tiger alumni" or perhaps one day take their place alongside them as administrators.

Dr. Kelvin Towers, Mr. Jemero Carter and the Coahoma Community College Choral Department never disappoints. Their music added just the right touch to the ambiance of the day as they filled the air with rich melodies and harmony.

We always love to see the pillars of the institution come back to participate in the institution's festivities. Here's a look at some of our alumni that recieved their "Golden Diplomas".

We cherish one another, watchout for each other, comfort each other and gain instruction from one another; that someday we may all sit in heaven together.
